Dear Licensee:

Happy New Year to you all and to your families. I hope that the 2010 holiday season was busy and prosperous. December of 2010 was the best month for sales of alcoholic beverages in ABC history. I would like to thank all of our customers, vendors and employees for making that possible. This could not have happened without their hard work.

Traditionally, the beginning of any new year is a time of reflection and a look back will show quite a few changes that the ABC Board and its stores have implemented. The Board has eliminated all table wines, fortified wines, coolers and vermouths from its stores. Careful study has shown that the private sector has been much more successful in satisfying customer needs in this category. We are definitely heading in the right direction, and the change has proven to be good for everyone involved. We have also delisted many slow-moving products, which has opened up shelf space for promising newcomers. In this new year, we hope to implement many more fresh ideas to help our stores become more efficient and productive for the State of Alabama and all its citizens.

The ABC Board strives to maintain aggressive and well-managed distribution and merchandising programs to respond to the needs of our customers. We recognize the significance of stores as a service to the public and promote a policy of efficient and courteous service by store employees. Control and customer service remain top priorities in our efforts to increase revenues while maintaining a high degree of service, enforcement and education. We strive for economy, efficiency and service improvements to reflect on the bottom line while also recognizing that we have control responsibilities.

The Board, our employees, and I encourage you to contact my office any time you have questions or need assistance.

Sincerely,

Emory Folmar, Administrator

A Clear Winner

Vodka, the largest spirits category in the US, continues to increase its market share, and despite the recession shows few signs of slowing down.

BY TOM STRENK

Note: This excerpt is printed with permission from the May/June 2010 issue of StateWays—the Beverage Alcohol Merchandising Magazine for Control States.

The vodka machine keeps on humming. Indeed vodka is the single largest spirits category by far, accounting for nearly 31 percent of total US spirits sales by volume, according to the latest figures from the Handbook Advance 2010, published by the Beverage Information Group.

“I would say vodka had a pretty good year in a tough environment,” comments Paul Tuell, director of Finlandia Vodka for the North America and Latin America Regions. “In terms of dollars, it’s been a bit flat; in terms of case volume it’s been a pretty good year.”

The category’s sheer size is one big advantage, especially in this difficult economy. With the proliferation of brands, flavors, varieties, and price points, consumers know there’s a vodka for every preference, taste, and pocketbook—and more to choose from all the time.

CLEAR ADVANTAGES

The white spirit has a number of advantages that have enabled vodka to thrive including drinkability, mixability, and a product to match every drinking occasion. Those qualities are important to younger adult consumers, who are often the target of flavored vodkas, as well as seasoned drinkers, who

LET THE GOOD TIMES ROLL!

Give your customers the taste of Mardi Gras this year by serving a variety of traditional rum-flavored drinks in a carnival setting complete with gaudy masks and beads. Laissez les bons temps rouler!

Basic Mardi Gras Punch

Serve in a chilled punch bowl with punch cups.

1 (40-ounce) bottle purple grape juice, chilled
1 (48-ounce) can pineapple juice, chilled
1 (2-liter) bottles ginger ale, chilled
1 fifth vodka or flavored vodka, chilled
Ice ring made with ginger ale and fruit juices
Orange, lime, and lemon slices

Combine the grape juice, pineapple juice, ginger ale, and vodka in the chilled punch bowl. Float the ice ring and fruit slices on top.

Hurricane

Serve in a chilled hurricane or cocktail glass.

1-1½ ounces light rum
1-1½ ounces dark rum
½-¾ ounce freshly squeezed lime juice
½-¾ ounce passion fruit syrup
Lime slice or wedge

Fill a shaker half full with fresh ice, and add the rums, lime juice, and syrup. Shake vigorously; strain the mixed drink into the chilled serving glass. Garnish with the lime slice or wedge.

Variations: Use gin, vodka, tequila, brandy, amaretto, orange or raspberry liqueur, a dash of grenadine, or grapefruit, orange, or pineapple juice in addition to or in place of some of the ingredients in the basic recipe above. Garnish with lemon, orange, or pineapple slices or wedges and a cherry.

Mojito

1-2 fresh mint leaves
3-4 teaspoons simple syrup
Fresh crushed ice or ice cubes
1¼-1½ ounces rum or flavored rum
Carbonated water or flavored carbonated water
Lime wedge

Muddle the mint leaves with the simple syrup in a heavy-bottomed serving glass. Add crushed ice or ice cubes; pour in the rum, and add enough carbonated water to fill the glass. Garnish with the lime wedge.

Daiquiri

2 ounces rum or flavored rum
Juice of ½ lime
½ teaspoon sugar syrup

Pour the rum, lime juice, and sugar syrup into a shaker half-filled with ice; shake vigorously. Strain into a chilled or frosted serving glass.

Something Old SOMETHING NEW

Injecting a sense of discovery into the marketplace, suppliers have been introducing a range of classic spirits—some new to US consumers, but many a reemergence of traditional products.

BY PAMELA DEVI GOVINDA

Note: This excerpt is printed with permission from the May/June 2010 issue of StateWays—the Beverage Alcohol Merchandising Magazine for Control States.

New products are the lifeblood of the beverage alcohol industry, as are new and rediscovered usages of traditional products. If nothing else, the popularity of the cocktail culture and the new wave of mixologists have spurred interest in some forgotten and seldom-used spirits. And suppliers, always sensitive to untapped markets and emerging trends, have taken note and are creating, importing, and reintroducing a range of spirits barely seen on retail shelves as recently as five years ago. Here's a brief discussion of some of these "outlier" spirits categories and products that are creating a buzz.

RYE

Rye is in the midst of a real resurgence. Remember the small-batch bourbon craze? Well rye is aspiring to take its place. When it comes to classic cocktails such as the Manhattan and the Old-Fashioned, some consumers are taking up rye in lieu of bourbon.

ABSINTHE

After the legalization of absinthe two years ago, countless new and old recipes for the anise spirit have launched and relaunched. Word has is that the spirit is gaining momentum and drawing cocktail-geek consumers and the curious alike. "Absinthe attracts because of the mystique surrounding it, but its comeback is also due to the interest in classic cocktails. So many classics contain absinthe including what is considered America's first cocktail, the Sazerac, but beyond that it is leading to experimentation and nouveau cocktails," says Jamie Gordon, brand specialist at Pernod Ricard USA.

CACHAÇA

The cachaça trend is still going strong, and some might argue that it isn't so much emerging as it has arrived, but Steve Luttmann, owner of Leblon Cachaça, says there is room for growth and he anticipates pop Brazilian culture will make its way to US shores. "I passionately believe we have a culture that will grow dramatically, especially as we get closer to the World Cup [in 2014]. We have the potential to make it to a half-million category in 5 years and a million in 10 years."

PISCO

Another South American spirit winning over cocktail consumers in the US is pisco. The grape distillate from Peru has a strong following in San Francisco, where there's keen interest in local and historical cocktails. Pisco Punch was created by bar owner Duncan Nicol at the Bank Exchange in San Francisco during the California Gold Rush [in the mid-1800s]. It is a concoction that Elizabeth Asher uses as a selling point for her brand, Macchu Pisco.

Herbie Loebel, proprietor of Artisan Brands and owner of Gran Sierpe Pisco, points out that the still-emerging stage of pisco is what draws bartenders and home-mixers. "A lot of mixologists like the underground element of pisco. Trendsetters want something cool and new—they are our primary targets."

MEZCAL

Agave spirits have been experiencing an upward trend in recent years, and mezcal in particular is an up-and-coming niche segment. Domaine Select Wine Estates is the national importer for the much-touted craft mezcal Sombra. "One of the more recent additions to our portfolio that I definitely consider emerging is Sombra Mezcal," notes Allison Domeneghetti, the company's COO. "I find trade and consumers are paying attention to where and how spirits are produced. Some of these spirits, like Sombra, are microcosms of cultures and an example of how spirit production can help sustain a culture."

GENEVER

Along with Pernod Absinthe, another true vintage brand on the market is Bols Genever, which relaunched in 2008. Bols has since become a trailblazer in educating the industry on the category. It was commonplace to find genever lumped in with the gin. It is now common knowledge that genever is gin's precursor, and people are discovering the spirit as classic cocktails like the Improved Holland Gin Cocktail find their way into the mainstream.

WHITE WHISKEY

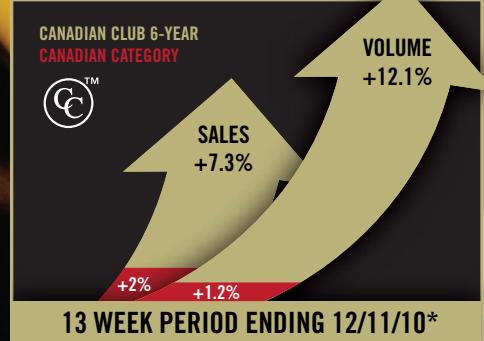

Spirits hipsters in New York, Boston, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and beyond will tell you they've discovered white dog—not to be confused with crude moonshine. The New York Times fashion and style T blog recently wrote about the trend, and the San Francisco Chronicle stated that white whiskey is hitting the mainstream. Tuthilltown Distillery's white dog is called New York Corn Whiskey.

House Spirits Distillery (makers of Aviation Gin) in Oregon also makes white whiskey, as does Death's Door Spirits in Wisconsin. "Death's Door has made an impact with its white whiskey, which launched about two years ago," says Domeneghetti of Domain Select. "There are advantages—distilleries don't have to wait for the whiskey to age, and on the bartender side it offers the nuances of whiskey but is clear and so versatile."

appreciate the various rungs of quality. And the off-premise trade is well-positioned to take advantage of these factors.

As the on-premise market has demonstrated for years and a growing number of consumers are discovering at home, vodka is eminently mixable. “With vodka, you don’t need a mixology degree to make a great-tasting cocktail,” points out Gino Luci, brand manager for Three Olives, Proximo Spirits vodka label.

One of the hallmarks of the category is the proliferation of flavored vodkas, which have helped drive growth overall. Traditional tastes of buffalo grass, pepper, and citrus have given way to a tutti-frutti kaleidoscope ranging from bacon to bubble gum, which begs the question, How many more flavors can fit on retailers’ shelves?

Much of the vodka category’s growth over the past few years has come from ultra-pricy and dazzlingly packaged superpremium entrants. Now that growth has shifted to thrifty value brands. On the plus side, this huge category has the range to capture all consumer buying occasions so customers aren’t trading out of the category altogether. Just how much market share those high-end premium and superpremium subcategories will eventually regain is open to debate. Right now, there’s no question that value rules.

OUTLOOK

The general consensus is that the category overall will continue to experience healthy growth. “Vodka’s versatility ensures the category will continue to have an unwavering presence at home and out-of-home entertaining experiences,” says Simon Burch, vice president of marketing of Diageo North America.

Skyy Spirits believes its vodka brand will continue to grow, “but [the market] will be increasingly competitive as brands compete for greater value share and consumers become more discerning about purchasing products with an eye on value and quality, not just style,” notes Maura McGinn, group director of vodkas and cordials.

“We’re starting to see some signs of life in the on-trade; people are eating out again,” observes Paul Tuell of Finlandia. “With increasing consumer confidence, I think we’re going to see better numbers than last year.”

“Flavors make it easy,” emphasizes Gino Luci, brand manager for the Three Olives, Proximo Spirits vodka label. “Just add a splash of soda, and consumers have a cocktail right in their hand.”

From club soda and tonic water to fruit juices, smooth liqueurs, and fiery Tabasco sauce, flavored vodkas blend with just about every mixed drink ingredient imaginable. Here are some recipes to get you started on creating your own quick and easy cocktails!

The Ultimate St. Patrick's Day Cocktail

What more appropriate spirit to serve on St. Patrick's Day than absinthe, the emerald-colored libation that's sometimes called "The Green Fairy." And what more appropriate way to serve this potent licorice-flavored liquor than in a reproduction or antique "reservoir" glass distinctively shaped to mark the proper amount of absinthe per cocktail. And what more appropriate way to produce the signature opalescent louche ("cloud") than to pour the requisite chilled water through a made-to-melt absinthe sugar cube carefully centered on an elaborately pierced absinthe spoon. And if you want to prepare more than one cocktail at a time, what would be more appropriate than using an elegant absinthe fountain!

To make the ultimate "Irish eyes are smiling" cocktail, just follow the recipe at right or the manufacturer's instructions for an absinthe fountain. You can find absinthe glasses, sugar cubes, spoons, and fountains in specialty stores, catalogs, and online (search for absinthe accessories).

Traditional Absinthe Drip Cocktail

Do not stir this drink—just let the opalescent louche form as the chilled water drips through the sugar cube into the absinthe.

1½ ounces absinthe or a licorice-flavored liqueur
1 absinthe or other quick-melt sugar cube
5-9 ounces ice-cold water

Pour the absinthe into a chilled absinthe or highball (collins) glass. Place an absinthe or other slotted/pierced spoon on top of the glass, and place the sugar cube in the center of the spoon. Slowly drip the ice-cold water over the sugar cube into the glass. When the green ring dissipates, the cocktail is ready to drink.

It doesn't matter who you are or where you came from, everybody can be Irish and join in the fun on St. Patrick's Day! Here are some special mixed drinks to help you get in the spirit of looking for lucky four-leaf clovers and shiny pots of gold.

Everybody's Irish Cocktail

Serve in a chilled cocktail glass.

2-2½ ounces Irish whiskey
 ½-1 ounce green crème de menthe
 ½-1 ounce green chartreuse
 Cocktail olive, onion, or other garnish of choice (optional)

Fill a cocktail shaker half-full with fresh ice. Add the whiskey, crème de menthe, and chartreuse; shake vigorously. Strain the mixed drink into the prepared serving glass; garnish if desired.

Whiskey and Ginger

Serve in a chilled highball (collins) glass.

2-3 ounces Irish whiskey
 Chilled ginger ale

Everybody Can Be Irish on St. Patrick's Day!

Lime wedge

Fill the chilled serving glass with fresh ice. Add the whiskey, and top with the ginger ale; do not stir—the bubbles in the ginger ale will mix the ingredients. Squeeze the lime wedge over the drink, and drop the wedge into the drink or discard it.

The Leprechaun

Serve in a highball (collins) glass.

2-2½ ounces Irish whiskey
 Chilled tonic water
 Twist of lemon or lime

Fill the serving glass with fresh ice. Add the whiskey, and top with the tonic water (do not stir; the bubbles in the tonic water will mix the ingredients).

Garnish with a twist of lemon or lime.

Whiskey and Green Tea Sipper

Serve in chilled rocks (old-fashioned) glass.

Absinthe

4 ounces chilled sweet green tea
 1 ounce Irish whiskey
 Slice of lemon or lime

Pour a little absinthe into the chilled serving glass, and swirl to coat the inside of the glass. Fill the prepared glass with fresh ice, and add the green tea and whiskey; stir gently. Garnish with a slice of lemon or lime.

Simply Classic

These classic mixed drinks feature classic spirits.

Sazerac

The Sazerac, which is one of the first (if not the first) mixed drinks created in the United States, is sometimes called "the father of all cocktails." It was concocted in New Orleans probably at the Sazerac Coffeehouse on Royal Street in the early 1800s. It was originally made with cognac, which was later replaced with rye whiskey. Serve it in a chilled traditional rocks (old-fashioned) glass.

2-2½ ounces rye whiskey
1-2 sugar cubes or ½-1 ounce simple syrup
5-6 dashes of Peychaud's bitters
2-3 dashes of Angostura bitters
¼ ounce Herbsaint or Pernod
Lemon twist

Fill a cocktail shaker three-quarters full with fresh ice; add the whiskey, sugar cubes or simple syrup, and bitters. Do not shake; instead, use a bar spoon to stir the drink until the shaker is ice-cold and frosty.

Pour the Herbsaint into the serving glass and either tilt or roll it to coat the inside of the glass; pour out any excess. Strain the mixed drink into the glass. Squeeze the lemon twist over the drink and rub it around the rim of the glass; either drop the twist into the drink or discard it.

Improved Holland Gin Cocktail

Serve in a chilled traditional cocktail glass.

2-2½ ounces genever
½-1 teaspoon simple syrup or 1-2 sugar cubes
1-1½ teaspoons Grand Marnier, Cointreau, or maraschino liqueur
2 dashes Angostura bitters
Lemon twist

Fill a cocktail shaker three-quarters full with fresh cracked ice; add the genever, simple syrup or sugar cubes, liqueur, and bitters. Do not shake; instead, use a bar spoon to stir the drink vigorously until the shaker is ice-cold and frosty. Strain the mixed drink into the serving glass. Squeeze the lemon twist over the drink and rub it around the rim of the glass; either drop the twist into the drink or discard it.

Caipirinha

The name of this sweet rum-based concoction, which is the national drink of Brazil, can be translated as "country bumpkin." Serve it in a traditional rocks (old-fashioned) glass.

1 lime cut into quarters
2-2½ teaspoons finely granulated sugar
2-2 ½ ounces cachaça

Place the lime wedges and sugar in the serving glass, and muddle well. Fill the glass with fresh ice cubes, and add the cachaça; stir well. Stir often while drinking it to keep the sugar from settling at the bottom of the glass.

Pisco Punch

Serve in chilled traditional punch bowl with cups.

1 pineapple cut into ½ x 1½-inch squares
8 ounces gum syrup (see note below)
16 ounces distilled water
10 ounces fresh lemon juice
24 ounces pisco brandy

Soak the pineapple squares in the gum syrup overnight.

When ready to serve, place the pineapple squares and gum syrup in the chilled punch bowl; add the water, lemon juice, and pisco. Garnish each cupful with a pineapple square.

Note: You can buy gum syrup from Small Hand Foods and other specialty producers or make your own.

Gum Syrup

2 ounces very hot (almost boiling) water
2 ounces gum arabic powder (available from Frontier Coop and other natural food suppliers)
4 ounces water
8 ounces sugar

Combine the 2 ounces of very hot water and gum arabic powder, stirring until the gum arabic completely dissolves. Let mixture cool.

Combine the 4 ounces of water and sugar in a pan and bring to boiling; stir constantly until the sugar completely dissolves. Add the cooled gum arabic mixture, and boil for 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Allow the gum syrup to cool; store in a tightly closed bottle.

Mezcal Margarita

Serve either over ice in a chilled traditional rocks (old-fashioned) glass or in a chilled prepared margarita glass.

1½-2 ounces mezcal
½-1 ounce triple sec
1-1½ ounces fresh lemon juice
Dash of simple syrup

Pour the mezcal, triple sec, lemon juice, and simple syrup into a shaker half-filled with fresh ice. Shake vigorously, and strain the mixed drink into the serving glass.

Got Chocolate?

A splash or two of chocolate will turn a martini into a luscious libation for Valentine's Day or any other "special" occasion. So stock up on chocolate-flavored liqueurs and vodka and let the mixing begin! Here are some recipes to get you started.

White Chocolatini

Melt a chunk of white chocolate, and use it to rim the martini glass before chilling it.

3-3½ ounces vanilla-flavored vodka
½-1 ounce white chocolate-flavored liqueur
Shaved white chocolate

Fill a shaker or mixing glass half-full with fresh ice. Add the vodka and liqueur; shake vigorously or stir. Strain the mixed drink into the chilled rimmed martini glass, and garnish with the shaved white chocolate.

Chocolate Martini

Melt a chunk of milk or dark chocolate, and use it to rim the martini glass before chilling it.

3-3½ ounces chocolate-flavored vodka
½-1 ounce chocolate-flavored liqueur

Dash of orange-flavored liqueur, if desired
Shaved chocolate or chocolate sprinkles

Fill a shaker or mixing glass half-full with fresh ice. Add the vodka, chocolate liqueur, and orange liqueur (if desired); shake vigorously or stir. Strain the mixed drink into the chilled rimmed martini glass, and garnish with the shaved chocolate or sprinkles.

Chocolate Mint Martini

Melt a chunk of mint-flavored chocolate, and use it to rim the martini glass before chilling it.

3-3½ ounces chocolate-flavored vodka
½-1 ounce chocolate-flavored liqueur
½-1 ounce white crème de menthe
½-1 ounce white crème de cacao
Shaved mint chocolate

Fill a shaker or mixing glass half-full with fresh ice. Add the vodka, chocolate liqueur, crème de menthe, and crème de cacao; shake vigorously or stir. Strain the mixed drink into the chilled rimmed martini glass, and garnish with the shaved chocolate.
